TalkPath™ Live

The Evolution of Therapy

Technology has made everything easier to do, easier to reach, with the world, literally, at our fingertips. Now schools can benefit from this convenience and accessibility — not just through curriculum software and electronic libraries, but now through online delivery of related services. TalkPath Live is at the forefront of teletherapy, providing both large districts and small schools with one-on-one, student-to-therapist sessions — live, in real time — using the computer equipment you already have and within the daily schedules already in place. We can provide as many or as few hours as you need for caseload management; we customize our therapy plans for every single student; and studies have shown that quality and effectiveness stay intact with remote delivery; in fact, some kids engage more with technology than with traditional face-to-face therapy. Want to learn more? We can't wait to hear from you.
